RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Sensing, interaction, mobile and ubiquitous computing. Reasearch assistant
Supervisors: IEEE/ACM Fellow Prof. Xiang-Yang Li   Sept. 2021 - Present

· Utilizing SOTA experience in Computer Vision and Deep Learning techniques, we designed a gesture interaction system deployed on smartwatches. It combines visual and IMU signals to recognize user gestures for more convenient and robust interactions and published in INFOCOM 2022.

· We design a user lip-reading authentication system based on Wi-Fi backscatter technology. It satisfies some key goals well and achieves SOTA performance. In June of this year, I reported this research and served as a session chair of IWQoS 2023 in Orlando, USA.

· Recently, we focused on the use of interaction technologies in smart health. We designed a silent speech interface that can help those with hearing loss and speech impairments to easily communicate by recognizing what they lip-read. It can also extend voice assistants to those restricted scenarios. This study is under revision review for ACM IMWUT 2023.

· Some other studies are under review in MobiCom 2024 and INFOCOM 2024. They are all the top conferences in these research areas.

USTC-Deqing Alpha Innovation Institute. Internship   Apr. 2021 - Sept. 2021

· I led the design of some modules of the IoT security platform system and the development of related algorithms. We proposed a novel Scalable IoT Security Framework, which used the unforgeable physical layer characteristics of IoT devices as the basis for authentication to identify rogue devices.

· Extensive experiments demonstrate that our algorithms and systems are highly robust and stable, and it have been used in several real-world scenarios.

· We submitted three patents and they are in the process of approving it. Due to my outstanding performance, I got the honor of an outstanding intern.

Human-centered computing and decision making. Research assistant
Supervisors: Prof. Yong Deng and Prof. Bingyi Kang   Oct. 2018 - Apr. 2021

· Based on fuzzy mathematics and Dempster-Shafer theory, we proposed fuzzy clustering algorithms, reliability evaluation mechanism and uncertain information decision models. They are published in many top journals such as Applied Soft Computing and IEEE Transactions on Fuzzy Systems.

· These works have received a lot of attention and praise from other peers, including the member of the Royal Canadian Academy of Sciences and IEEE Life Fellow Prof. Witold Pedrycz. We were collaborated on the design of a decision-making framework. It is under revision review in Expert Systems with Applications, a top journal in this field.
